In such cases, any consent will only be given once the consent has first been obtained from them. (Note: any permission sought, which can be granted by the council alone will not be unreasonably withheld but may be subject to reasonable conditions).

Permission needs to be sought before the activity takes place.

you / tenant

your household

- 3.3 If you die whilst your tenancy is a flexible tenancy, your tenancy will pass to your husband, wife or civil partner (or a person who you lived with as if you were husband and wife or civil partners) if he/she occupied the property as his/her only or principal home at the time of your death. No other family member can succeed to your tenancy. If a joint tenant dies the tenancy will pass to the other joint tenant and this will count as a succession.
- 3.4 As a flexible tenant, and as long as your tenancy remains secure, you have the right to assign your tenancy to a person who is qualified to succeed to your tenancy. If you do this, this will count as a succession.

4. Flexible tenancy review

The flexible tenancy is for a five year period and the council does not have to give you another tenancy when the fixed term ends. In the 12 months prior to the end date of the tenancy there will be a review. You will be required to submit financial, health and family composition information that will enable the council to make the decision whether to grant a new tenancy in accordance with the council's Tenancy policy, and if so, what length of tenancy to offer.

- 4.2 If it is decided not to grant you another tenancy on the expiry of the flexible tenancy, the council will give you at least six months' notice in writing.
